

BISCD 0913 : Nutrition Therapy

This course introduces students to medical nutrition therapy which involves the use of nutritional interventions to manage common diseases in the health care setting. A general overview of nutrition management and intervention approaches will be provided including biochemical and physiological considerations for the diseases presented that include metabolic, gastrointestinal and renal disorders.

Credits 1.0

Prerequisites

BIOCD 0561, 0571 CGS Biochemistry I, II; PHYSD 0550, 0551 Human Physiology I, II or with prior course director approval.